Adam McInnis Announces Candidacy for Benton County Justice of the Peace, District 9

Bentonville, AR – [October 22, 2025] — Adam McInnis, a decorated law enforcement officer and community leader, has officially announced his candidacy for Justice of the Peace in Benton County's District 9. With over a decade of experience in public safety and executive leadership, McInnis pledges to bring accountability, fiscal discipline, and common-sense leadership to county government.

A Patrol Sergeant with the Bentonville Police Department, McInnis has earned recognition throughout his career for integrity and excellence, including being named Officer of the Year (2014) in El Dorado and receiving the Medal of Merit for outstanding service during a critical investigation. He has completed the FBI LEEDA Leadership Trilogy and the School of Law Enforcement Supervision, and previously served as the department's Public Information Officer, leading community engagement programs such as Coffee With a Cop, Citizens Police Academy, the Youth Academy, and National Night Out.

Before moving to Benton County, McInnis worked as Head Physical Security Officer for First Financial Bank, overseeing operations in Arkansas and Mississippi. He also worked for the El Dorado Police Department, where he trained new officers and served on the department's SWAT Team. His combined background in law enforcement and private-sector management gives him a unique perspective on public accountability and fiscal responsibility.

"I believe in responsible leadership, limited government, and safe communities," McInnis said. "As a Justice of the Peace, I'll work to ensure every taxpayer dollar is spent wisely and that our sheriff's and prosecutor's offices have the resources they need to keep Benton County safe."

Adam McInnis holds degrees in Law Enforcement, Criminal Justice, and Executive Leadership. He and his family live in Benton County, where they are actively involved in local non-profits, churches, and community events.
